Taking into account current economic conditions and the future prospects for economic growth, and the continuing unemployment problem particularly among youth and the substantial fall in employment levels since the 1989 Minimum Wages Board hearings, created by the Bougainville situation and continuing depressed commodity prices; and

Bearing in mind future budgetary implications on the Nation's primary objectives of economic growth and employment creation, law and order, improvement of living standards in rural areas and equitable income distribution among all Papua New Guineans, and the impact the Board's Determination will have upon the Government's ability to achieve its development objectives; and

Taking into account the need for orderly industrial relations and the desirability of attracting investment for development and expanding the labour market;

The Board is requested to address itself to, and determine the method of adjustment and commencement date and timing of such adjustments of all or some minimum wages over a period of three (3) years and in particular:

1. To review and determine the appropriateness or otherwise of the present method, formula and conditions for wage adjustments as set out in Minimum Wages Board Determination No. 1 of 1989 and to investigate possible ways of making wages more responsive to economic forces particularly in the rural sector.
2. To review and determine the appropriateness or otherwise of the criteria for grading urban centres with particular attention to the justification for current classifications of Level One and Level Two centres.
3. To review and determine the appropriateness of current minimum wages applying to youths employed in the rural sector (particularly in the plantation sub-sector) with the view to de-regulating these youth wages, to in turn encourage and induce many more rural sector employers to increase their youth employment levels, particularly at this time of higher youth unemployment, and unprecedented lower primary export commodity prices (see NEC Decision No. 36/91).
